

Law Library Food, Drink and Tobacco Restrictions

Law Library users deserve a clean and quiet atmosphere. Therefore, food and tobacco products are prohibited in the library. Insects and rodents attracted by food pose a danger to the library collection and furniture. Noisy and odiferous food consumption also serves as a distraction to study and research. Tobacco products are also inappropriate in the Law Library.

Patrons may bring non-alcoholic drinks into the Law Library but only in authorized “spill-proof” containers. Authorized containers have secure tops with small openings or closable slots. (See the pictures below, the display posted in the library and on the Law Library website, for examples of authorized containers.) Twist-top bottles (water, pop, etc.), soft drink cans, and paper cups with lids, are NOT considered “spill-proof” containers and therefore are specifically prohibited in the Law Library. The contents of these types of containers may easily be poured into authorized containers, so please be cooperative in bringing in only authorized containers.

Inevitably, spills occur, even with spill-proof containers. Please take personal responsibility for any spills by reporting them to the Circulation Desk and obtaining supplies to clean up the spill.

All drinks (even in authorized containers) are prohibited near library computers and printers, and are prohibited in the RARE BOOK ROOM, SPECIAL SERVICES ROOM (Room 130), the COMPUTER LAB, the PRINT LAB, and in the book stacks.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Authorized containers (examples only; staff may use their judgment)

These are permitted

Prohibited containers (examples only; staff may use their judgment)

These are Prohibited

